Blank In Trustee Election

Some one, nobody is willing to admit it now, placed the name of Marion Bruce on the ballot for county school trustee, Precinct 3, in last Saturday's election.

Precinct 3 is located in South Amarillo after redistricting of commissioned precincts.

The polling place was American Legion Hall in Canyon. Nobody voted.

It didn't matter much. Bruce lives in Precinct 1 and would not have been eligible to serve anyway.

The whole thing cost the county about $15, according to County Judge Carroll Brown.

Resolution Would Hike Local Taxes

BY TROY MARTIN

Apparently by mistake, Randall County commissioners court Monday lowered taxes on dwellings about 3.66 percent but raised all other property taxes 13.33 percent.

District Attorney George Dowlen, County Judge Carroll Brown and Tax Assessor-Collector Audrey Bruse concurred that a resolution passed unanimously by the court would have this effect on county taxes.

Judge Brown said it had been the intent of the court to follow recommendations made by a Randall County Tax Study Committee earlier this year.

He promised that the court would take up the tax adjustment resolution at its meeting next Monday.

C. Raise the present 15 percent taxable evaluation to 17 percent on both rural and city property.

The motion was made by Commissioner Bill Butler and finally seconded by Judge Brown in a precedent-smashing move after the three other commissioners balked.

Judge Brown waited several minutes in silence after calling for a second. When none was forthcoming, he seconded the motion himself and then defended his action.

Although he voted for the resolution, Commissioner Clarence Beckman attacked the legality of the Brown second.

Following is the text of the Butler resolution:

"I make a motion to reduce the 100 percent valuation of the dwellings in the cities by 15 percent, but (to retain) 100 percent valuations on farm property as shown on attached schedule. (Schedule shows valuations as assessed in 1968.)

"The tax should then be imposed on all rural and city property by applying the tax rate to 17 percent of the appraised value.

"The farm dwellings will be taxed on 50 percent of the amount by which a similar residence in the city will be taxed.

Attendance Count Made

Picnickers, egg hunters and campers swelled attendance records at Palo Duro Canyon State Park and Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge.

At the canyons, tickets were sold to 2,045 cars not including early morning entries for the Easter Sunrise Service where no charge was made until after passing the Pioneer Amphitheatre.

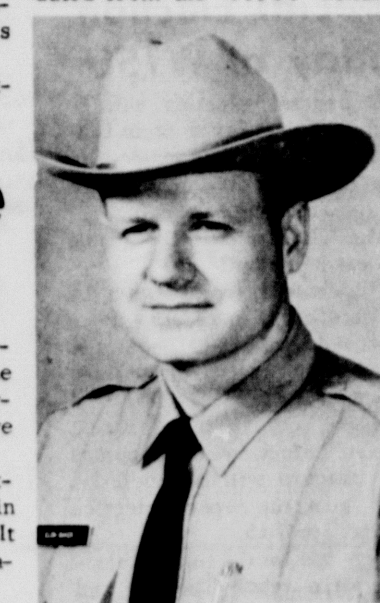

Buffalo Lake estimated an attendance of about 4,000 persons who were egg hunting, picnicking and boating. There is presently no game fishing at the lake due to the winter kill, according to authorities.

Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum registered 726 visitors on Easter Sunday.

Tracksters To Compete For District

The Canyon Eagles track team will go to Dumas Saturday to try to make a good showing in the district meet there.

McAlpin said the Eagles have several members who have a

Price Sets WT Speech

U. S. Rep. Bob Price will speak at 10 a.m. Thursday at West Texas State University.

He is to speak in the student union building ballroom, according to Frank Castleberry, director of the building.

Castleberry said Price has not released the topic of his speech.

The stop in Canyon will be part of a Panhandle-wide tour by Price.

Young Man's Fancy Turns

BY CARROLL WILSON

Like the smile of a beautiful girl, a crinkly smile, a mixture of "I love you," and "But, watch out, I am fickle," is the spring.

Like the smile, the spring beckons "come run with me." And, like the smile, spring fades in an instant but blends with the face of existence.

While it is here, while its whimsical impishness lures us, we bask in the smile of spring and we succumb and by succumbing we become part of spring. We become a part of it because spring is more than a season of the year, more than a scientific and predictable fact. It's a state of being.

And although you can point and say such and so always happens in the spring, you can never define the feeling of spring, the essence which is behind the predictable.

The essence spurs the feeling and the feeling stirs action.

And spring is one hand in another and a slow stroll under a clear sky night.

It's the top down on your car and a blue sky and the song of a meadowlark filtering through the rush of wind by your face. The wind is spring and it pushes frail cherry blossoms along dirty gutters. And, dust is spring, but you never remember it.

Spring is grounders and flies and the crack of a bat, the plop of float on a silent creek and the smell of fresh earth.

And the smell of leather and sweat and sage brush and perfume and cigarettes and grass.

Spring is running in the rain barefoot and letting the sun pucker your winter-white skin.

It's the "Mabel, Mabel, set the table" of jump rope and the "clink" of a tin can kicked down a dusty street. It's the bark of a dog and the bark of a motorcycle and the bark of the teacher as you look out the windows.

Spring is wishing you were somewhere you aren't. It's dreaming a dream that can only come true in the spring, but which can never come true because it's spring.

Spring's easy to describe, but hard to define and it should be. The smile of spring, like the smile of a beautiful girl is predictable. But, it is loved because of its essence.

Tulips in bloom signify the advent of spring in Canyon. Spring for the Canyon area not only means blossoming trees but high winds and the fear of tornadoes. (Photo By Carroll Wilson).

Mercury To Play

ALUM TILT SATURDAY

West Texas State's high powered Alumni offense, spearheaded by All-American halfback Eugene "Mercury" Morris, will be tested by the Buffaloes' 1969 varsity in the annual Varsity-Alumni football game ending spring practice at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Buffalo Bowl.

Tickets for the Varsity-Alumni game are set for $2 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Morris, who broke three national rushing records this season, still holds the overall NCAA career rushing mark of 3,381 yards. Marks set by Morris which were later broken include most yards in a single game (340 against Montana State) and most yards in a single season (1,573).

Joining Morris in the Alumni offensive lineup will be quarterback Roy Winters, fullback Albie "OO" Owens and split end David Szymakowski.

Winters, who guided the Buffs to an 8-2 record this season, ranks second among the school's all-time passers. Owens is the eighth leading rusher in the school's history. Szymakowski, a member of the New Orleans Saints of the National Football League, is WTSU's all-time leading pass receiver.

Center Joe Kerbel, Jr., right end Byron Jones and tackle A. Z. Drones, regulars from last year's Buffsquad, will head the blocking chores for the Alumni.

Holding down the center of the line for the Varsity will be transfer Sid Goff, letterman Jerry Cryer and squadman Milton Young at the center spot. Returning regulars Dag Azam and Earl Clardy will be at the guard positions.

The Buff Varsity is also looking

'67 Committee Holds Meeting

Eleven of 16 members of a steering committee of the Committee of '67 met Monday to study a tentative proposed report and recommendations for West Texas State University.

The recommendations of the Committee were broken down into four categories during the meeting: those requiring legislative approval; those requiring action and support by the city and region; those requiring university administrative action.

Final approval of the committee's report will be made in late April or early May. It will contain the recommendations of 10 subcommittees.

The committee was organized about a year ago to study WTSU and make recommendations for change in its structure, facilities and goals.

Judge Carl Periman of Amarillo is head of the committee, which is made up of 67 business and professional men from throughout the Panhandle.

The group was originally designed to interview persons connected with the university, evaluate the goals of the institution and set out guidelines which WTSU should follow.

During the course of the school year last spring subcommittees talked with student leaders, teachers and administrators at WTSU. They also held an open session in the Student Union Building where interested students could come directly to the committee with requests or suggestions.

Originally the final report was to be presented April 28, but Dr. Emmitt Smith, vice president for program development and research at WTSU and a committee member, said the report presentation will be postponed.

Turnout Poor For Election

Election judges termed the vote "poor" Saturday when a Randall County farmer and rancher and a Canyon doctor were elected to the School Board.

Choir Needs Trip Funds

Odd jobs are being sought by Canyon High School choir students to raise funds for a trip during early May to the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi.

Students will work in many capacities such as babysitting, housecleaning, window washing, yardwork, farmwork, etc., to raise the funds.

To arrange for a student worker contact Miss Linda Adams, choir director, 655-3734.

FROM THE

CANYON RIM

A group is being formed in this area to acquaint high school and college youngsters with the dangers of drugs--especially LSD.

It was the Canyon community which first faced up to the LSD problem. Dr. T. Paige Carruth, dean of student life at West Texas State University, was one of the first college officials in the country to attack the problem head on.

It was his diligent investigation of a peyote and LSD cult which finally resulted in a state statute making sale or possession of hallucinatory drugs a felony. The cult showed up on the West Texas State campus in the spring of 1962. Dr. Carruth began an intensive investigation with the assistance of the Randall County Sheriff's Department as soon as he heard of it.

The Canyon News also worked on the probe and about 15 members of the group finally were pulled in for questioning by officers and District Attorney A. W. Lair.

The News sought an opinion

DR. CARRUTH

The newspaper business is full of surprises. I had just gotten this column in type when I learned that the state Court of Criminal Appeals had knocked down the entire Hazlewood LSD law.

The high court said it was because of "poor wording" of the title.

I decided not to rewrite my column in spite of the court decision. The column clearly shows the need for an LSD law. Be assured that I will continue the fight for a statute to keep thugs from sabotaging the brains of Texas children with LSD.

flatly that LSD can do permanent damage to the brain.

Some of the admitted users tended to bear this statement out. For the most part they were docile. One even expressed sympathy for his interrogators because they had never experienced a "trip."

Peyote is LSD in its natural state. Peyote is a dried cactus bud which contains mescaline. Mescaline is a hallucinatory drug which affects the user in much the same manner as LSD.

To the chagrin of Dr. Carruth and officers involved they learned that there was no law against possession or use of either peyote or LSD.

Peyote was even being shipped into Canyon by the basketful and there was nothing anyone could do about it.

Senator Grady Hazlewood took note of the WTSU investigation and began trying to get a hallucinatory drug bill passed. He finally was successful in 1967 and it was under the Hazlewood statute that charges were filed in Randall County last fall in connection with the alleged sale of LSD to a Canyon youngster.

I naturally feel a sense of pride that this community faced up to the problem and was instrumental in giving other communities in this state a legal weapon with which to fight it.

The incident happened early in Dr. Carruth's career and, in my opinion, it marked him as a man of destiny. That was almost seven years ago and I haven't been disappointed with his conduct since.

He is the West Texas version of S. I. Hayakawa, fair but tough. In the fullness of time I fully expect him to ramrod some university himself.

I have a suspicion that at least one rural Randall County commissioner knew exactly what the tax adjustment resolution passed by commissioners court Monday was all about.

The tax study committee's recommendation was supposed to have remedied alleged inequities between city property and rural property.

The study committee was formed after South Amarillo taxpayers, led by developer Tom Dawkins, raised a fuss declaring that city property was taxed unfairly in comparison to rural property.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

One of the complaints registered by the college dissidents is the irrelevancy of the courses offered to any kind of productive career. The campus riots have been confined to the liberal arts colleges and universities. School of medicine, dentistry, law, and the many technical and vocational colleges have had no riots.

If the malcontents were not so blind they could see that the problem lies not with the colleges but with their own lack of purpose and goals in life. It would be most difficult for a student without aims or ability to enroll in a medical school. But it is easy enough for aimless, inept students to drift for a while on the fringes of liberal arts colleges.

And while the vast majority of liberal arts students quietly pursue their various degrees which will eventually inject them into the bloodstream of our professional or economic life, a few of the aimless ones follow the professional trouble makers in rioting and degradation. Violence and destruction are a savagery whether committed on an American college campus or in the jungles of Africa.

Obviously, savages do not belong on a college campus.

The trouble-making students conform to a pathetic pattern. As a rule, they are from broken homes; they have had very little guidance or encouragement in

Jaycees To Install At Banquet

Ken Stokes will be installed as president of the Canyon Jaycees at an area banquet Saturday night at Happy High School cafeteria.

Also installed at the meeting will be Jaycee officers from Vega, Amarillo, Claude, Tulia and Hereford.

Other officers to be installed for Canyon Jaycees will be Bob Bellah, vice president; J. G. Wells, secretary; Wilton Manley, treasurer; and Delbert Turk, interclub director.

Bob Buck, Texas president of the Jaycees, will install the officers and guest speaker will be Lewis Timberlake, past president of the state Jaycees and former vice president of the national organization.

Open to the public, tickets for the banquet are $12.50 per couple.

Four Teachers To Convention

Four delegates from the Canyon Classroom Teachers Association will attend the Texas Classroom Teachers Association 13th annual state convention this weekend in El Paso.

Representing the CCTA will be Mrs. Donna Wilson and Mrs. Inell Zeveloy with Mrs. Marion Shoemaker and Robert Green as non-voting representatives.

TCTA's 47,000 members will vote on constitutional revisions, new state officers, and resolutions concerning legislation on teacher salaries, professional practices and professional consultation agreements.

Mrs. Kathryn Townsend of Victoria, president of the statewide organization of classroom teachers, will preside at the two-day meet. Featured NEA luncheon speaker Saturday will be Dr. Jack Kleinmann, director of the Office of Planning and Organizational Development of the National Education Association. Mrs. Mary Condon Gereau, legislative consultant for the Office of Legislation and Federal Relations, NEA, will speak at the Saturday night banquet.

Special Election Friday at WTSU

A special election will be held at West Texas State University Friday to consider the fate of a proposed constitution for the Student Association.

The election will be in the student union building.

The constitution, drawn up by the Student Senate, has been approved by that body but awaits student approval before taking effect.

If the constitution passes, general election of Senators and officers will be April 29. If it fails, the general election will be April 15.

Sign-ups for the general election were taken Tuesday and Wednesday.

Father Dies In Arkansas

Funeral services for J. T. Sykes, Sr., 82, were conducted Wednesday at Pyatte Funeral Chapel in Siloam Springs, Arkansas.

Mr. Sykes died Monday at Memorial Hospital in Siloam Springs after a brief illness. He was born February 15, 1887 in Mills County and had formerly farmed in Randall County from 1929-51. Interment was at Siloam Springs.

He is survived by his wife, Mary Lou of Siloam Springs; three daughters, Mrs. H. C. Adcock of Canyon, Mrs. J. H. Head and Mrs. S. O. Conley, both of Dallas; three sons, H. Alvis of Siloam Springs, J. T. of Amarillo, Ernest T. of Marina, California; a stepson, James I. Hines of Oregon; a sister, Mrs. Charles Miller of Goldthwaite; two brothers, Homer of San Angelo and Floyd of Goldthwaite; 14 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

their lives, or attention of any kind. The rioting is a desperate bid for attention. Many of them had rather be beaten and jailed than ignored.

The white dissidents usually insist they are clamoring for the rights of their colored brothers. Having been deprived of love and attention as children (the most essential elements for emotional growth), they are probably more empathetic with anyone they feel is deprived than the average student is. However, if they could not share the limelight, they probably would not be so sentimental about the problems of the non-whites.

Emotional problems can be solved the same way any other problems are solved: by following four simple steps.

First, one must be aware he has a problem.

Second, he needs to be aware of what his problem is. (As long as he can blame someone else with his troubles, he is not likely to get rid of them.)

Third, he has to want to overcome his problem. (No one ever got rid of a fault he enjoyed or wanted to keep.)

Fourth, he needs to seek the most practical, efficient means available to solve his problem.

All of us are prone to see the world as a reflection of ourselves. If we have no goal or purpose in life, it is difficult to realize that anyone else does. If we are lonely, unhappy, and maladjusted, it is easy to convince ourselves that the whole world is aimless and unhappy.

When Browning had little Pippa say "God's in his heaven; all's right with the world," he made it quite evident that it was only Pippa's world that was "all right"; the world through which she passed was shambles.

If the rampaging students would seek professional help, and face the truth about the situation, they would probably discover the problem was not with the establishment at all but with themselves.

If the dissidents do not mend their ways, it looks as if the healthy students (the real victims of the violence) may have to take discipline into their own hands. And it is doubtful they will be as gentle and ineffective as the administrators and the police have been.

If parents would--by percept and example--instill some realistic and worthy values and goals in their little children, they would not have so much trouble with their big children.

Choir Funds Are Needed For Festival

Choir students of Canyon High School are seeking a variety of odd jobs to raise money for a trip to the Buccaneer Music Festival in Corpus Christi in early May.

Students are available to serve as babysitters, in yardwork, painting, housecleaning, window washing, farmwork and all types of odd jobs.

To arrange for a choir student to work residents may contact Miss Linda Adams, choir director, 655-3734.

In addition to raising funds for the project throughout the year, the choirs must also maintain an excellent choral record in University Interscholastic League competition to qualify for the festival.

"They must also receive a rating of II or better at last year's festival," according to Miss Adams.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Crabtree, lives in Levelland and his father, R. M. Crabtree, is at Plainview. He has a sister, Mrs. Joe Jarnigan, in Pasadena, Texas and two brothers, Bill in Farmington, New Mexico and Bob in Monahans.

Association with the bowling lanes causes "a lot of bowling interest at the Crabtree home", according to Mrs. Crabtree. She stated that she bowls with the Twilight League, Koffee Kup League, and Traveling Queens. Both she and her husband are active in the Starlite Mixed League, and he also bowls with the Businessmen's League, the Canyon City League and the Panhandle and Tri-City Travel Leagues.

Their children also get in on the family sport of bowling by being in the Banham League bowling events on Saturdays.

Along with her husband, Mrs. Crabtree also spends a majority of her time at the Canyon Bowl where she fills in at all types of positions for a majority of the week.

The Crabtrees are members of St. Ann Catholic Church in Canyon and she is organist for the church.

Children of the couple include Larry, 11, a sixth grade student; Lynn, 10, a fourth grade student; Terri, 8, a second grade student; Bryan, 4 and Gary, 2. The three older children are involved with scouting activities here.

Former Pastor Visits In City

Dr. Roy L. Johnson showed slides of mission work in the northwest at the evening worship hour Sunday for the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Miss Loula Grace Erdman Honored On 20th Publication

Loula Grace Erdman, author, will be honored April 20-21 on the publication of her 20th book.

In the new book, "A Time

To Write", Miss Erdman has written an autobiographical account about the craft of authorship. Books by Miss Erdman have been translated into so many languages that she has lost count.

Miss Erdman has continued to teach as well as write and is at present writer-in-residence at West Texas State University, where she also directs a writers workshop, and advanced course in creative writing.

Early in her writing career, when she won the Dodd Mead Redbook $10,000 award, it was assumed that she would quit teaching. She never considered quitting and her article "I'll Stick To Teaching" has been reprinted from the Reader's Digest in booklet form for wide use in teacher recruitment.

She works with the creative theses in the English department at West Texas as part of a new approach to graduate work being pioneered by the school, which is one of only a few institutions with such a program.

Miss Erdman and her publisher, S. Phelps Platt, president of Dodd, Mead & Company, will be present for autograph parties Monday April 21.

The parties are set for Blackburn's from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m., Cooper and Melin, 4-6 p.m.; and Brown's downtown store, 7-9 p.m. All are located in Amarillo.

On Sunday, April 20, an informal reception will be held from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at Tascosa Country Club honoring Miss Erdman and Platt. A dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. will feature an address by Platt on "The Eastern Publishing Scene". Dinner reservations ($3.50) must be made at the secretary's office of Mary E. Bivins Memorial Library, Box 2171, Amarillo by 9 a.m. April 18.

The Friends of the Amarillo Library are sponsoring both the reception and dinner assisted by members of the Panhandle Pen Women, the Writers' Association of the Golden Spread and High Plains Center for the Performing Arts.

Free Things Of Life Decorate Decker Home

BY JOAN FOWLKES

The best things in life are free! Or so think the Harold Decker family which is made up of Harold and Clerise and their family, Beverly, Valerie, and James.

Their household is brimming with items and treasures that have been dug out of rubbish that others have discarded. It takes a knack to be able to visualize a completed project when looking at a piece of scrap. The entire family gets involved with these projects though, and all have been able to develop an eye for this sort of thing.

The family recently completed a major project of making wall-to-wall carpets for their three bedroom home that is out on Claude Road. They get down on the floor and start piecing the designs and have also made many scatter and area rugs. One area rug, 10 by 13 feet covers the center of their den.

Mrs. Decker estimates the cost of the rugs and carpet in their home to be about $38. They are made out of carpet scraps that they pick up from discard piles at the carpet stores and glue to a burlap backing. A special glue is used and foam padding is also glued on for comfort and plush appearance. When finished, the carpets may be treated as any carpet and may even be shampooed.

Harold and Clerise design and select color schemes that blend well before embarking on the project. She said that after designing the first one, the imagination just soars and that there is no end to the different designs and effects that can be created.

The first carpet that Clerise made was sold but they have become such a personal activity that she has not sold anymore even though she has had many requests. The Deckers have given many to very close friends and relatives on important occasions.

Carpets in two of the bedrooms are designed with a color scheme of gold, beige, and olive. The boys bedroom is done in a patchwork design and is multicolored. The den rug is basically gold with olive and is trimmed in red. This rug is accented with furniture and accessories that have also been made by the family.

Lamp tables have been made out of two old barrels that Mrs. Decker said that she grew up with. She can remember the scarcity of silver coins during World War II and said that her mother hid the coins in these barrels under chicken mash that was stored out in the barns at Fayetteville, Texas. The barrels are thought to be around fifty years old. Another antique item put to use to help in the old west decorating scheme was a wagon wheel hub that laid out in the field close to Harold's home north of Munday, Texas, during the days of his youth. Last August, during vacation time, the Deckers decided to go get it and see how it could fit into their household scheme. This now serves as a base to a lamp and is estimated to have been at the farm for more than fifty years.

A wagon wheel hub lamp sets on an old chicken mash barrel that has been converted to match purchased chairs. The wall plaques were also made by Mrs. Decker and the bottles are some of a collection among many antique items of carnival glass and pressed glass handed down to Mrs. Decker by her mother.

The center of attention in the living room is an imitation fireplace that a neighbor had discarded. Clerise said that she immediately grabbed it for she already had plans for its use. She took it home, painted it white and with the use of mastic, used for attaching ceramic tile to bathroom walls, began to decorate it with rocks of orange, aqua, charcoal and a variety of other colors that came from a collection of many rocks that the family had gathered on vacation trips to different parts of the United States.

The Decker home is full of antiques and do-it-yourself items that range from room accessories to major projects. The whole family is creative and collection-minded. And Mrs. Decker says the personal satisfaction is overwhelming.

She also noted that what is mere trash to some are the greatest of treasures to others.

Mrs. Clerise Decker stands by a fireplace salvaged from a neighbor's scrap pile. Colorful rocks in hues of aqua, orange, charcoal, and white are accented by a deep aqua scatter rug made by the family. The Decker family is very creative with dried weeds and a variety of plants that can be displayed in arrangements to accent items of furniture or color schemes.

MRS. GENELLE SPARKMAN takes a "then" look at law books in the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum as she wears a floorlength dress in preparation for the secretarial seminar to be held Saturday at West Texas State University under sponsorship of the Tierra Blanca chapter of National Secretaries Association.

Working Wives' Role Changes

Today's new freedom in virtually every aspect of life has resulted in a subtle but important change in the attitude toward the working wife. Once upon a time the woman who had both a husband and/or children plus a job was considered decidedly suspect.

Now all of a sudden the situation is well on its way to being reversed. But this new climate of acceptance promises to make things a lot easier for the working wife and mother.

Actually, the secretary has been a bit ahead of the game all along. She was the first to gain admittance to the male domain and it's been a long time since anyone protested her presence there.

There were only 7 female office workers in 1870; 200,000 in 1900; and more than 2 million secretaries, stenographers and typists are employed today, out of an estimated 13,000,000 women now in the working force. One out of 5 of these women have children under 6 years of age and 1 out of 3 have children under 18.

The typewriter is largely responsible for this state of affairs, as it literally freed the human female from a life of mental drudgery and started her on her way to becoming more equal to men in all areas of our society.

Business did not accept the shock of women in offices right away, but it did prefer type-written correspondence and the convenience of carbon copies compared to the former copying method of dampening the original writing and squeezing an impression on tissue in a letter-press.

The modern typewriter represents the achievements of many years of trial and invention. So far as is known, the first attempt to make a machine for writing with type was in 1714, when a patent was granted in England for such a device.

Between that date and 1850 numerous attempts to perfect a typewriter were made in European countries and the United States, but it was not until 1874 that a successful machine was placed on the market. The construction and perfection of this machine were due to the mechanical genius of Charles L. Sholes of Milwaukee, who developed a type-writing machine which later was manufactured under the Remington name and sold for $125.00. These were mounted on a sewing machine base with a foot treadle carriage return, and the case was stenciled with a floral design.

One of their first cash customers was Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain), but he said he had to stop using it for letters because everyone he wrote immediately replied, asking him to describe his writing machine--and he didn't like to write unnecessary letters. He was the first author to type a book manuscript.

The first office girls were called "typewriters" rather than secretaries, because they wrote with type on a machine instead of pen or quill.

Then the girls started learning Isaac Pitman's shorthand to take dictation, and the stenographer became an office necessity.

Some forms of abbreviated writings were used long before the time of Christ, but the first modern work on shorthand was published in England in 1588 by Dr. Timothy Bright. This was followed by others which attracted more and more attention. The system of "phonography" was devised by Isaac Pitman, and was published under the title Stenographic Sound-Hand in 1837. This system was introduced into America in 1844, and soon became widely used.

The Pitman shorthand uses shading, position writing, and angles, while the Gregg system requires no shading or position writing, and the angles are changed to curves for speed. The Gregg system is the prevailing system today.

Man's first calculating aids were his fingers and toes. Even today, in a few primitive societies, any number greater than 10 or 20 is "many." One of the earliest known calculating devices still in wide use today is the abacus. It consists of rows and beads strung within wooden framework. In informal contests, skilled abacus operators have beaten mechanical calculators. The abacus is still used in Russia and the Orient. The first device resembling a calculating machine as we know it today was invented in 1642 by Blaise Pascal, discoverer of the principles governing the weight of air, equilibrium of liquids, trigonometry, and the calculation of possibilities. Charles Xavier Thomas, director of a French insurance company, developed the first successful mechanical calculator in 1820, the Thomas Arithmometer.

There were few improvements in mechanical calculators during the late 1930's and early 1940's, but recently these machines have undergone a number of important changes, mostly relating to improved speed of operation, lower noise level, and printing capability.

Since the introduction in 1963 of the first electronic calculators by Bell Punch Co., England, these machines have rapidly acquired a degree of sophistication beyond Pascal's wildest dreams. Looking ahead, the electronic calculators may be but a step toward low-cost desk-top computers for virtually every need.

Secretarial Seminar Takes "Then-Now" Look At Offices

Secretaries from across the area will be in Canyon Saturday for a "Then and Now" look at secretarial techniques, office machines, education and fashion.

Sponsored by the Tierra Blanca chapter of National Secretaries Association, the secretarial seminar will be held in the new university complex at West Texas State University beginning with registration at 9 a.m.

The general session, beginning at 9:30 a.m., will feature an address from Mrs. Dorothy F. Robinson, first vice president of the Texas-Louisiana Division of NSA. Mrs. Robinson is currently a candidate for president of the Texas-Louisiana District of NSA.

Mrs. Robinson is affiliated with Trinity Chapter, NSA, in Fort Worth and is executive secretary to W. P. Earngey, Jr., administrator of Harris Hospital since December 1958, and has approximately 10 years previous secretarial experience. She has served the Texas-Louisiana division of NSA as first and second vice president and was formerly president of the Trinity Chapter, NSA, in Fort Worth. She took her secretarial course at Interstate Business College in North Dakota and attended evening classes at Tarrant County Junior College 1967-69. She has completed 5 parts of the Certified Professional Secretaries exam and is in the altar guild of Trinity Lutheran Church in Fort Worth, a member of the Fort Worth Friends of the Library and member of the advisory committee for the office occupations program for the 1968-69 junior college year.

Mrs. Robinson's address of response will follow an invocation by Mrs. Wilma Johnson of the Tierra Blanca chapter of NSA and a welcome and introduction of guests by Mrs. Ruth Lassiter, president of Tierra Blanca chapter.

The group will be split into three sections, each of which will attend thirty-minute "classes in shorthand, typing, and office machines. The group will be split into sections in order to provide an opportunity for those attending to actually operate the equipment as well as hear the discussions.

Dr. Roland Johnson, Head of the Department of Business Education and Office Administration at WTSU, will conduct the sessions in typing, while Mrs. Peggy Romanelli, Assistant Professor of Business at WTSU, will be in charge of the shorthand groups.

Mr. Frank G. Landram, Jr., Assistant Professor of Business at WTSU, will conduct the classes in office machines. "The Office of Tomorrow" will be a talk by Glenn Yeager, International Business Machines representative from Amarillo, at 11:30 a.m.

Adjournment will come at 2 p.m. The seminar sessions will be followed with a joint meeting of Palo Duro Chapter (Amarillo), Caprock Chapter (Lubbock), Hereford Chapter, and Tierra Blanca Chapter (Canyon). Mrs. Robinson will conduct the joint session.

SHIRLEY DONNELL, CPS, of the Tierra Blanca chapter of National Secretaries Association is shown with a "now" look at secretarial techniques as she operates a "209" Automatic Copier by the 3-M Company.

Tanglewood News

BY GAY HENDRIX

Eva Jane Dodson, Dorothy Jo Blackburn and Patsy Campbell of Lake Tanglewood, and Joyce Flenniken of Canyon hosted the annual business meeting of the Junior Antique Club at a dessert buffet in the clubhouse diningroom Wednesday, April 9. The buffet table was covered with a black and white checked cloth with a centerpiece of hand painted rocks and forsythia. Copper and brass serving pieces held an assortment of fried pies. The club elected new officers for the group of 38 women who get together regularly for a wide variety of lectures and field trips relating to antiques and history.

Jesse Pearce had his truck shop do a very professional job of painting four 55-gallon drums a bright orange and marking them, "litter". When Milligan has finished paving around the entry and clubhouse and moved his heavy machinery out so that there will be no chance of those elegant litter barrels getting scratched, Jesse will set them out in convenient places. Club members are urged to use them for litter and keep the club neat, but please, they're not for dumping personal trash! Jesse, Bob Sims, and E. C. Jackson have faithfully saved old Clorox bottles all winter, and when the water warms up a little more Jesse will tie them down to mark dangerous stumps in the ski area.

Julia Manning left Tuesday for her home in Perryton to lecture the garden club on herbs-how to grow them and how to use them in cooking. Julia is also a member of the Garden Center in Amarillo and will be a delegate to the district meeting of the Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., in Lubbock on Thursday and Friday. She is vitally interested "in the conservation of anything, wildlife as well as flowers and things that grow". This summer, when she can spend more time here at the lake, Julia hopes she can be helpful to who have yard problems or want to learn more about the wild flowers around us. Julia, who always has an interesting gardening project going, modestly added "my thumb isn't really green, but it's usually dirty."

The Tinkhams served breakfast to a church group of 37 people at 7:30 Easter morning, and at noon were besieged by eager club members for Easter buffet. 150 people were expected, but around 250 showed up, and unfortunately the food ran out. Dick Tinkham eagerly invites everyone back this Sunday and promises that there will be more than enough for everyone.

The board of directors for the teen room has met several times since its election and has worked on a club constitution and is currently drawing up a set of rules to guide the board. Allen Bedell put in several hours building four speaker boxes, but a lot more manpower is needed to get the room ready to open. So a meeting for the teenagers is set for 2:00 Saturday afternoon, April 12, to elect committees to work on decorating and fund raising.

Boosters can't miss the large two-story home that Jan and Nelson Cash have built next to the Nard Cazells. Jan and Nelson are finishing the inside themselves and have made splendid progress. They hope to move in early this summer after their daughter, Cindy, graduates from Tascosa High. The Cashes have built this home around a circular metal stair which was formerly located in an atomic energy plant. The winding stair was originally 16 feet high, but Nelson has cut it into two pieces-one to connect the two levels inside, and the other to connect the upper and lower terraces outdoors.

ball coach Joe Kerbel says Redic is as fine a passer as he has coached at West Texas.

Duane Thomas, part-time starter last fall, and transfer Ramse Faleafine have been sharing the fullback duties. Transfer Ralph Thompson, also a talented kicker, and letterman Olan Thompson and Aaron Banks are filling the running back spot held by Morris.

Replacing tackles Larry Brazon and A. Z. Drones will be former defensive tackle Don Tate. He has shared time this spring with squadman Wayne Adams and converted end Dale Donoho.

Willie Walker, converted fullback, and former split end Don Moon share time at tight end. Dick Flynn, returning regular, is at split end along with Darrell Wynn, squadman.

Transfer Robert Jackson and freshman letterman Ronnie Willingham and Mike McMullough have been sharing the flanker back duties, but will be challenged in the fall by part-time starter Charles Henderson who underwent a knee operation.

Returning regular middle linebacker Stan Hansen, who also missed spring drills with a knee operation, was filled in for by redshirt Ken Powers. Regular Harold Stuart and transfers Jeff Malliard and Charlie Read played at the outside linebacker slots this spring.

Regular John Notaro, letterman Rick Fangman and transfer Joe Fiola have been making progress at the defensive guard spots and regular Randy Robson, squadman Ron Holland and converted split end Jim Patterson are battling for the defensive tackle jobs.

The Varsity secondary is expected to be solid with veterans Gary Conner and Billy Lantow at the corner spots and Ralph Anderson and Raymond Brown at the safety positions.

Redic, Ralph Thompson and Matis Garza will provide placement kicking talent for the Buffs and Thompson and regular Roland Reichardt will take over punting chores.

Cold weather hindered the early practice sessions of the Buffs but the team has been blessed with warm weather during its last two weeks of practice. The Buffs will hold three days of practice this week before the clash with the Alumni Saturday night.

Resolution...

A dwelling outside the city limits and not on a farm will be taxed on 75 percent of the amount by which a similar residence in the city will be taxed."

Beckman had insisted that the 15 percent reduction in 100 percent evaluations be applied to rural dwellings as well as city dwellings in order to keep them at the 1968 ratio.

For example the city dwelling valued at $20,000 would be reduced to a taxing base value of $17,000 by applying the study committee formula. Then 17 percent of this amount, $2,890, would be used for taxing purposes.

A rural dwelling of the same value would be cut in half to $10,000 then reduced by 15 percent to $8,500 and finally with the 17 percent factor applied be entered on the county tax rolls at $1,445.

The tax assessor-collector said that under the resolution passed by the court Monday she would be forced to apply the 13.33 percent raise to all property in the county other than dwellings.

"This is almost verbatim the recommendation of the committee," declared Judge Brown of the Butler motion just before seconding it.

The judge admitted Tuesday upon review of the resolution that he and the court were in error and that the resolution as passed would not carry out the wishes of the tax study committee.

"We will just have to re-work it," the judge declared.

Mrs. Bruse Monday reported that her office has collected $1,217.96 in delinquent personal taxes and $1,947.24 in delinquent taxes on real estate. She said the collections were effected mostly through writing letters.

Judge Brown announced that Randall County Feed Yard's application to dump waste into a plays lake in north Randall County and then use water from the lake for irrigation will be heard at 10 o'clock the morning of April 23 in Austin before the Texas Water Quality Board.

School Tax Assessor-Collector Conway Kuykendall asked that his school tax office be allowed to use the office formerly occupied by the county treasurer's office. The office is located adjacent the school tax office on the first floor of the court house.

The treasurer's office has been moved to the second floor of the court house.

Commissioner Glenn Dowlen announced that he will spend precinct funds to purchase right of way for a road for a feed lot to be built in Precinct 3 just north of Happy.

George Dowlen informed the court that he was about to purchase several second hand law books for the county law library at a considerable savings to the county.

In other business, the court received a report from Vernon York, Texas Highway Department resident engineer, on

Cancer Unit Has Surveys With Drive

Randall County will participate in the American Cancer Society's five-year educational survey held in conjunction with the annual residential fund crusade to be held here April 15.

"This is the third year the society has conducted the survey in Texas," according to Larry Hooper, crusade chairman for Randall County. "We have been asked to request each householder, both husband and wife, to answer a brief questionnaire."

"This confidential questionnaire, without names, may be mailed in a return envelope provided by the society. Each questionnaire includes eight questions for women and six for men and asks such questions as 'Did you have a complete physical examination in the past year?' and 'Did you stop smoking?'" stated Hooper.

Hooper added that "answers to these questions will help the cancer society to evaluate and plan educational programs more effectively."

Joe Gidden, president of the Randall County Unit, said that "We must reach more people with the educational messages, and must determine which messages are really changing people's health habits."

News Brief
